

Lecture Series in Selected Topics in Post-Keynesian, institutionalist, feminist and Marxian political economy 2018 Session

The Greenwich Political Economy Research Centre- GPERC (University of Greenwich) and FEPS (Foundation for European Progressive Studies) are jointly organizing a series of lectures in advanced macroeconomics based on a political economy approach combining institutionalist, feminist, Keynesian and Marxist traditions.

The lecture series builds on the research expertise of staff in political economy.

All lectures are chaired and discussions are led by Professor Ozlem Onaran (FEPS Scientific Council member and Director of GPERC)

This joint activity received financial support from the European Parliament.

Programme

15 March: University of Greenwich - Theories of Growth

14:00-15:45 room QA075. Dr Alberto Botta, University of Greenwich: A post-Keynesian perspective on capital mobility, exchange rate dynamics and Balance of Payments crises in developing countries.

16:00-18:00. room QA075. Professor Ozlem Onaran, University of Greenwich: Post-Keynesian/Kaleckian demand-led growth models: the effect of income distribution and gender inequality on growth.

17 May: University of Greenwich - Marxism

10:00 – 12:00 room QM268. Dr Jeff Powell, University of Greenwich: Towards a Marxist theory of financialised capitalism

12:30-14:30 room QA010. Dr Tomas Rotta, University of Greenwich: The Commodification of Knowledge and Information

24 May: University of Greenwich - Development Economics

10:00-11:45 room QA010. Professor Mehmet Ugur: University of Greenwich: Institutional/Schumpeterian growth theories

12:00-13:45 room. Dr Cem Oyvatt, University of Greenwich: Political Economy of Conflict

29 May: University of Greenwich - Stock-Flow consistency modelling

10:00 - 11:45 room QA038. Dr Maria Nikolaidi, University of Greenwich: Post-Keynesian stock-flow consistent modelling: theory and methodology.

12:00 - 13:45 IT Lab QA274. Dr Yannis Dafermos, University of West of England: Building a stock-flow consistent model in practice (lab session using R).

How to find us

University of Greenwich:

The seminars take place at Greenwich Campus (Old Royal Naval College, Park Row, London, SE10 9LS).

Organizing Committee

Prof Ozlem Onaran, University of Greenwich

Eurydice Fotopoulou, PhD student, University of Greenwich

Alexander Guschanski, PhD student, University of Greenwich

Achilleas Mantes, PhD student, University of Greenwich