UNIVERSITY OF GREENWICH

Welcome

At the University of Greenwich, established in 1890, we pride ourselves on extending excellence in education and research globally through our Transnational Education (TNE) programmes. As a historic pillar of academia in London and Kent, we stand as a global beacon of learning, impacting and partnering in 19 countries.

Our TNE initiatives are designed to meet the worldwide demand for high-quality British education, making world-class education accessible globally. We collaborate with international institutions to bring Greenwich's distinctive quality and innovation right to your doorstep. Our programmes are crafted with a keen awareness of local cultures and industry needs, ensuring our graduates are not only academically proficient but also ready to make meaningful contributions to both local and global economies.

With a vibrant community of over 24,000 students from diverse backgrounds and an annual turnover of £280m, we lead in promoting global citizenship and cross-cultural understanding. Engaging with our TNE programmes offers access to our cutting-edge research, state-of-the-art facilities, and a rich talent pool. Our graduates excel in critical thinking, innovation, and adaptability, essential skills in today's world.

Partnering with us is seamless. Our dedicated TNE team facilitates collaboration, offering your institution the benefits of our academic excellence and global outlook. Join us in forging a future that is inclusive, innovative, and impactful.

How we can work together

Articulation Agreement:

These involve a formal link between UoG and an external partner, providing a guarantee that a cohort of students who achieve an agreed standard in a programme at the partner will be able to progress to a particular stage of an award-bearing programme in the UoG, provided there is a close curriculum 'fit' for articulation purposes.

Joint award:

A programme developed jointly with at least one other institution, which may also have degree awarding powers, leading to a Greenwich award, or a degree awarded jointly by both institutions.

Franchised Programmes:

This refers to existing (or sometimes, modified versions of existing) University of Greenwich programmes which have been approved for delivery on campus, and which may also be approved ('franchised') for delivery by an external partner.

Progression Agreement:

The University recognises progression from a programme a student has completed at a partner institution, either to the beginning or to a more advanced stage of an award-bearing programme in the UoG. Applications are received on an individual basis.

Dual Award:

A programme of study jointly delivered by a partner institution and the UoG leading to the granting of both a Greenwich award and that of the partner institution.

How to become a partner

If you are interested in building impactful, sustainable, and mutually beneficial partnerships, please download the partner proposal form and return the completed form to the International Partnership Office.

After initial consideration by the relevant host Faculty and International Partnerships Office, the application process for prospective partners comprises two stages:

- approval of the partner
- approval of the programme.

FPT University, Vietnam

Partnership model: Franchise

We celebrate a significant relationship with one of our most esteemed partners, FPT University in Vietnam. The partnership was established in 2009 and rapidly evolving into one of our most substantial collaborations.

Our educational programmes have seen remarkable growth, recently expanding from the First Year Experience to a comprehensive three-year franchise.

Spread across four vibrant campuses in Ho Chi Minh, Da Nang, Hanoi, and Can Tho, over 4,000 students are engaged in pursuing a Greenwich degree, witness to our expanding global footprint.

We offer a wide range of multidisciplinary programmes in Business, Computing, and Graphic and Digital Design, reflecting our dedication to academic diversity and adaptability.

Our partnership is multifaceted, encompassing franchised operations, summer schools, and laying the groundwork for potential future research collaborations. In a landmark event, several FPT students were welcomed to the Greenwich campus for our inaugural summer school in August 2023, underscoring our commitment to international educational exchange and growth.

New York College, Greece

Partnership model: Franchise and Validation

In 2006, a partnership was forged with New York College that has since flourished into our most significant European alliance. This collaboration boasts two campuses situated in the historic cities of Athens and Thessaloniki.

Today, over 500 students are immersed in studying for a Greenwich degree at New York College (NYC), reflecting our academic reach across the continent. Our programmes are as varied as they are rigorous, encompassing fields such as Business, Computing, Biomedical Science, and Human Nutrition, amongst others.

Our partnership is characterised by its diversity and depth, offering franchised and validated programmes, engaging summer schools, enriching student exchanges, and pioneering joint research collaborations. This multifaceted approach underscores our commitment to providing a broad and impactful educational experience, rooted in international cooperation and academic excellence.
